BLUE LAWS IN WESTCHESTER.

Sheriff Stops Swearing, Sunday Baseball Games and Open Stores.

TUCKAHOE, N. Y., July 31.—Westchester county's Sheriff has suddenly revived the blue law which has not been enforced in a quarter of a century, prohibiting swearing, playing ball or selling merchandise on Sunday, and as a result a wave of reform swept over Westchester county today.

For some time Sheriff James S. Merritt has received complaints about swearing among young men on Huckleberry trolley cars, which pass through Tuckaheo, Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, Larchmont and Rye, and he decided to enforce the law. Not only did he have deputies riding on the cars, but at Waverly Square and other parts of Tuckaheo he had copies of the act declaring swearing to be a misdemeanor tacked up on trees and on other conspicuous places. Under it was a notice that he would enforce the law.

The Sheriff's order evidently frightened the young toughs who have been in the habit of congregating in the square when trolley cars from Mount Vernon, Yonkers and White Plains arrived, as the square was practically deserted. To escape arrest baseball players went to East Chester, in Bronx borough, just across the Mount Vernon line, to play their games.

Members of the Sabbath Observance League and several other religious societies had detectives out getting evidence against saloonkeepers and hotel proprietors. Some of the members of the organization, it is said, went about Mount Vernon and Yonkers with cameras and took snapshots of men going through doors of hotels. These will be submitted to the Westchester Grand Jury at White Plains as evidence.

Japanese to Work in Mexican Mines.
MEXICO CITY, July 31.—The experiment of working Japanese in coal mines is to be made by the Mexican Coal and Coke Company, which is owned by the Erie Railroad interests. The first installment of 200 Japanese arrived at the company's mines, near Tepic, Mexico, to-day direct from Japan.

ARNHEIM
Broadway & Ninth Street.HE WAS THE FLYWHEEL.

Or the Fly on the Wheel, and the Court Let Him Go.

John McMahon, who said he lived at 343 East Twenty-third street, was in the Yorkville police court yesterday on a charge of intoxication.

"Judge, I hope you won't detain me. I have an engagement at the Hoffman House," he said to Magistrate Cornell.

"You put this policeman to a lot of trouble last night," responded the Magistrate. "Don't you think you ought to pay a fine?"

"I have only 15 cents with me, and it is important that I should get to the Democratic national headquarters. Chairman Taggart of the national committee personally engaged me as a political worker for the campaign. I hope you won't interfere with the chances of Judge Parker by locking me up," pleaded the man.

"I don't wish to interfere in the campaign and I will discharge you," announced the Magistrate. "Are you one of the campaign orators?"

"No, I address envelopes for sending out literature. I'll send you some campaign literature for letting me go, Judge Cornell," replied the man as he started to go.

"Don't you do it, or I'll fine you now," said the Magistrate.

McMahon promised not to and was let go.

FRANK BURNS MURDERED.

The Probable Fate of Marlboro's Missing Jewelry Salesman.

Boston, July 31.—State Detective Peleg Murray, who has been constantly at Athol searching for the body of Frank Burns, the Marlboro jewelry salesman who disappeared near there on Dec. 17, says he has found unmistakable evidence that Burns was murdered. The nature of the evidence is not known except to the State police, and Murray has not yet given his superiors the details or the source from which he obtained the evidence.

The State police for a long time have been satisfied that Burns was murdered. The last man known to have been in Burns' company is Walter E. Smith, now under arrest, charged with the larceny of a jewelry which Burns had in his possession when he disappeared.

Store Closes at 5 P. M.
Saturdays at NoonThe GREAT AUGUST FURNITURE DISPLAY
Is Ready at WANAMAKER'SThe Axe at the Root of the Tree

Perhaps the first axe that lent its aid to this great August Furniture movement was swung in some Northwestern forest. Thousands of them are swinging there today. These semi-annual trade sales are far-reaching in their effect, and have become a great factor in the great industry. But the manual strength that brought the forest to the sawmill, and the manual skill that turned that forest into artistic furniture, compose only one chapter of this great story. In the beginning it required a shrewd mind to conceive the scheme that has had such marvelous development. It required skill and persistent business sagacity to continue to achieve the splendid results which have followed the development of the idea. It would have been far easier to have turned aside from that original plan and to have followed the line of least resistance in buying and distributing cheap furniture.

There were imitators of the idea, and the imitator always lacks energy. The imitators have strayed along the easy byways, where cheap furniture was to be gathered; and in a dozen quarters where August furniture sales were loudly exploited a few years ago, they are little known today; because the imitator by deceptive practices has lost the public whose beguilement was attempted.

The WANAMAKER semi-annual trade sales of furniture have been conducted only by constantly increasing effort. The task grows harder and harder with every six months' sale. The vast industry which these sales have so tremendously stimulated has grown stronger and more secure in the economy of management. Today the workmen in the industry, from the beginning to the end of it, are receiving good wages; and production is carefully guarded, so that losses are far less frequent than they were a few years ago.

It is not easy to prepare a great August sale that is thoroughly everything that it pretends to be. We have been working many months in the gathering of the furniture which is displayed this morning. It has required all of the prestige and buying power of our two great stores to secure the concessions which have made this sale possible.

There is not a piece of furniture here that has come from a questionable factory. There is not a piece of furniture that has been made to sell at a cheap price. Every piece was regularly made with the expectation that it would bring its full value. Every piece of furniture is new and perfect. There are no sample lots, except such pieces as are reduced in price from our own stock and added to the sale. The superb parlor furniture is newly upholstered—bright, spic and span as if you paid full price for it. The same is true of the dining-room and bedroom furniture.

Every bargain that is presented has been secured directly from the manufacturers who supply our regular high-class furniture, and every piece is of this standard quality. Hard as the effort has been, we have overcome all obstacles, and we are able today to introduce the presentation of as fine a collection of under-priced furniture as we have ever shown in these semi-annual occasions. It is a sale that, in the very nature of the industry, we know cannot be duplicated anywhere, even in small parts. There may be offerings, and there undoubtedly will be, of cheaply constructed furniture made to compete with these genuine bargains; and they may mislead some. But there is no other, there cannot be such a presentation of high-class furniture anywhere else, as is gathered here today for your examination.

"BIG MIKE" SULLIVAN A HERO.

Badly Scorched by Rushing Into a Burning House to Save Two Children.

Boston, July 31.—The Hon. Michael J. Sullivan, who was known as "Big Mike" when he pitched ball for the New York National League and other clubs, but who is now a lawyer, politician and member of Gov. Bates' council, proved himself to be made of the right stuff when he rushed into a burning house in South Boston last night in search of two children supposed to be there. Mr. Sullivan and Capt. Shallow of Ladder 1 were standing opposite the house when the mother of the children came running and screaming for some one to save her two babies.

Sullivan led the way up the stairs, followed by Capt. Shallow. At the top of the stairs a great sheet of flame surrounded the two men, compelling them to fall back. Sullivan was severely burned about the head and face. His mustache was burned completely off, as were also his eyebrows
